

Jessica Matthews

Managing Associate

📞 0345 166 6261

✉ jessica.matthews@freeths.co.uk

Jessica Matthews is an experienced corporate and commercial lawyer who has worked with public and private company clients, including in regulated sectors. She helps clients to manage risk and advises on a range of commercial, transactional and corporate governance matters. Jessica previously trained as a lawyer, and practiced, at Herbert Smith Freehills.

She has experience leading on advisory and transactional work, including drafting commercial contracts, considering discrete commercial queries, and working as part of a team on high profile acquisitions and investments – including coordinating complex due diligence exercises.

Legal Services

Corporate

Selected Cases

- Commercial contracts to govern media and advertising services, including internet search optimisation services and social media. Other commercial contracts including sales agency agreements and service agreements, some with international aspects. Drafting a software licence agreement for a company for whom incorporation of software into their products is a key part of their business.
- Advising a number of newly listed companies on key areas of risk, including in relationships with customers and key suppliers, regulatory requirements and announcements to shareholders.

- Acting for a listed fund in its acquisition of an asset management business which represented the establishment of a new business line, including presenting to the business on integration aspects following an extensive due diligence exercise.

Sectors